

Fire_cci Project Website launched

3. November 2010 - 15:33

The project manager is happy to announce the launch of the Fire_cci project website. The project website will be setup and maintained to, create project awareness and promotion, allow external user participation and support, provide an interface for data dissemination, support project coordination and monitoring.

The project web site will evolve over time with new features, news, events and other issues.